SCHOOL REPORTS.

CENTRAL SCHOOL NO 2.

The spring and fall terms of this school were taught by Miss Georgia E. Twombly. Miss Twombly labored faithfully for the advancement of the school. Order and discipline was excellent, and generally speaking, good progress was made. If any of the scholars have failed to receive an equal share of the benefits of the school, as claimed by some of the parents, the fault is not with the teacher. Parents should never speak ill of the teacher before their children, it creates a prejudice in the mind of the child which the teacher cannot overcome.

The winter term was taught by Mrs. Laura E. Morrison. Mrs. Morrison solicited the school, giving us the assurance that the trouble of last winter should not be repeated, and I think we can truly say that she has been faithful to her trust. Harmony and progress prevailed during this term. Honor to whom honor is due.

SCHOOL NO. 3.

The school year of 1889 was taught by Miss Hall under the superintendence of Mr. Charles W. Hayes having given excellent satisfaction she was employed to teach the school another year. Miss Hall is a teacher of experience and well qualified to preside in the school room. This school although the smallest in number contains the most advanced scholars of any school in town. The scholars were remarkably studious and prompt in their recitations. Excellent progress was made.

In abolished school-district No. 1 which has no school house there are now four scholars, three of them are attending school in Dover, two board in the city and one is carried from home. Their tuition is paid and a small sum is allowed for expense in getting them to school. The other has received what schooling he has had at home without expense to the town. Some settled policy should be established in regard to educating these children during the present year.

E. L. JENKINS.

Visiting Committee School No. 2 and fall and winter term of No. 3.

SCHOOL NO 3.

Spring term. This school consisted of five scholars and was taught by Miss Annie Hall of Nottingham. This was Miss Hall's 16th term and I think it is a good recommendation that she has spent about one-third of her labors as a teacher in this school.

Fall term—Minnie C., Harold H. and Reuben Hayes and Fred W. Bennett.

Winter term—Minnie C. and Harold H. Hayes and Fred W. Bennett.

Spring term was taught by Miss Laura M. Sleeper. This was Miss Sleeper's second term in this school out of her 24 terms of experience. As a teacher she made no mistake in her calling, and we made no mistake in our selection. Owing to sickness she declined the third term.

Fall and winter term was taught by Miss Ada S. Locke of Barrington, Miss Locke's reputation as a teacher is ranked with the first and I think I am justified in saying that the record of good teachers for this school was not broken by the selection of Miss Locke as a teacher.

GENERAL REMARKS.

We think those that have taken an interest in the schools and a more rapid advancement of an education for their children have already seen the advantage of free text books.

The spellers used in our schools were in bad shape. Many damaged by leaves being gone and two or more different kinds in the same school and a shortage at that. Therefore the modern speller was introduced in which the pupils have made excellent progress. We also introduced Scudder's U. S. History to be used in part as a reader as well as a study. The scholars have taken a deep interest in their history and in our estimation have learned enough to pay for the expense. Greenleaf's arithmetic is now used in the place of numerous kinds formerly used.

Spelling blanks have been introduced which are a great help in teaching children to write as well as to spell properly. There are two kinds of geographies used, Connell's and Warren's but as new ones are needed Warren's are supplied.

As Barnes' readers have given good satisfaction in the past they are still retained and new ones added as they are needed.

Outline maps have been used in all the schools and many of those which we have seen show a very good knowledge of geography. Hyde's grammar is the one now in use and we believe gives good satisfaction. A dictionary has been placed on each teacher's desk.

A bookcase is much needed in each school house for the safe-keeping of the books during vacation, also any that may not be in use during the term.

Each teacher is supplied with a record book in which the books used are recorded and the name of the scholar using any book is written opposite the number of that book.

We hope that the changes which have been made have been for the interest of the scholars and meets the approval of the district.
